A COMING EVENT.

Fourth of July Promises to be a Lively Day in this Neck of the Woods.

The glorious Fourth occurs next Tuesday, and as the time approaches it becomes evident that we are going to have a celebration that will be well worth attending.

Altho the preparations for the event were started late, there is every indication that there will be an abundance of entertainment for those who come to town, and every effort is being made to fill all of the events, so that any one of them will be well worth coming to town to see.

The committee in charge has engaged Ouse's Third Regiment band of Wausau for the occasion and they will be on hand all day to furnish music about the city. In the evening the orchestra of this organization will play for a ball at the opera hall, to which the general public is invited to attend, and as this organization has no superiors in this part of the country for dance music, there should be a good time for all.

Another event not mentioned in last week's writeup will be an automobile race, for which the committee has decided to put up a purse, and in which all who are so disposed are invited to take part.

The parade will start at ten o'clock in the morning and an effort should be made by our merchants to make this a success and one of the features of the days entertainment. A large number have signified their determination of being in the parade with advertising floats, and others are preparing a humorous rig for the occasion. Altogether this should be a very interesting feature.

The east side fire run will occur at 11:30 o'clock, at which time the whistle will be sounded, when the people are notified to get off from the streets and stay off until after the run is over. The west side run will occur at 7:15 in the evening.

An elaborate lot of fireworks have been ordered by the committee having this part of the entertainment in charge, so that people who liked this sort of amusement will find entertainment also.

Shoving the Queer.

Several counterfeit dollars have been passed in this city during the past week, and it is evident that some person has been here with a supply of the spurious coins and has succeeded in getting rid of a number of them. Those who have seen the bogus dollars, say they are a fairly good imitation of a silver dollar in looks, but that they are lighter in weight and softer than silver, making their detection quite easy to a person who is used to handling money. It is thought that the party who had the bogus dollars passed what he could in the city and then moved on to some other place to catch new victims.

Sent to the Industrial School.

Ada McGowan, the 15 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David McGowan, was taken before Judge Conway on Thursday on complaint of her parents, who claimed that they were unable to govern where she could be taken care of. After hearing the facts in the case, the judge decided that the parents were right in their claim and sent the girl to the Wisconsin Industrial School for Girls at Milwaukee.

Woodmen Keep Old Rules.

Three important questions, over which Modern Woodmen have been long divided, were settled during the initial day of the head camp session at Milwaukee. The proposition to adopt more liberal terms relative to the admission of candidates who were identified with the liquor traffic was referred, after a heated debate, to the law committee, from whence it came, with the probability that it will not again come up; the proposed change in the rule so as to exempt beneficial members from current assessments at the time they are taken into the society was voted down, and the proposition to do away with the $8,000 policy was killed, provision being made at the same time for a policy of $1,500. In the address of Head Consul Talbot a recommendation was made that the national camp meet but every four years, in the interest of economy. During the past two years 1,482 new camps have been established and 121,033 new members added to the order. The Woodmen now have a membership equal to 14.53 per cent. of the population in states where the society is organized.

Have Made a Good Find.

The Penokee Development company, which opened operations at their claim near Mellon for the summer a short time ago, have struck red hematite ore in considerable quantities, and as a consequence the projectors feel pretty good over the matter. The following from the Mellon Weekly gives a more extended description of the find:

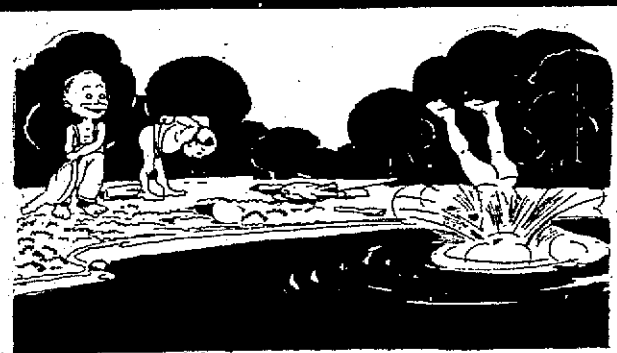

The Penokee Development Co. has encountered red hematite iron ore on their property in Sec. 17. The water in the main shaft was pumped out last week and a crew of miners have been working in the North drift. A sand stone rock was first encountered then a foot of soap stone after which the red iron ore presented itself. They have gone into Ore 3 feet and all indications are that the Ore contains for some depth. It is very encouraging to the company to strike red iron ore as heretofore they have gotten only the hard rock specular iron. It demonstrates one very important feature for the Penokee Iron Range, and that is that red hematite Ore can be found under the black hard Ore. Experts varied in their opinion in this respect but this find at the Penokee mine settles that question practically. There now seems to be no doubt that the Penokee Iron range has the fully developed red hematite Ore is what mining men are after and from the recent finds on Penokee Iron range there can be no reason why capital won't prospect soon. The Penokee Development Co. have worked their property very diligently last year, but this year have been closed down until last week. The officers of the company have always credited their property as being one of the best on the range and the recent find of red hematite shows that they have not over estimated the property. For the benefit of Mellon and vicinity the Weekly hopes the good find will continue and that Mellon will some day be the greatest mining center in the State.

Miss Mary Broselowitz and Stel Pelot stood up with the young people. Both the young people are well known in the town of Sigel and have many friends to wish them a happy journey thru life.

A Contested Will.

Some of the heirs of John Paterek have given notice that they will contest the will made by that gentleman before his death. The will he made is in favor of Mary Ann Paterek, his wife, and E. N. Paterek, a daughter. He had a former wife and there are several children who are contesting the will. The matter came up before Judge Conway yesterday, and the will was admitted to probate, but the matter will be tried out before the circuit court.

The First One In

Say don't you remember how we boys used to enjoy pulling off our shirts and trousers, and diving into the cool, clear water of the creek, back of the farm?

We pretty nearly tore our clothes in order to be "the first one in."

Well it's a good deal the same way all thru life. When you see a good investment we are all anxious to be "the first one in" on it.

And say—we heartily believe we've got a line of material in our yard that will fit your needs to a nicety—and we'll make the price right. DON'T BE THE LAST ONE IN.

OUR GAME LAWS.

No Very Radical Changes Made From the Laws that Existed Last Year.

There is probably no town in the state where there are a larger percentage of hunters than there right here in Grand Rapids, consequently there are as many people interested in the game laws here as at any place. There was comparatively little change made in the game laws by the legislature, and in order to give the local minders an idea of what has been done along this line, we append below a synopsis of the laws as they will be published later on:

Game prohibited.

Game must be accompanied by the owner when in transit.

All persons desiring to hunt deer or other game must obtain a license and pay the following fees therefor: Residents, $1; non-residents, $25 for hunting deer and other game; $10 for hunting game except deer.

Hunting license must be in possession of person while hunting. Non-residents in possession of a license therefor may kill and ship two deer, and may ship fifty game birds, fowls or animals.

Resident licenses not allowed to ship game out of the state.

Game—Deer. Open season. General open season for hunting deer Nov. 1 to Nov. 30 both inclusive. Special provisions prevailing in certain counties.

Woodcock, partridge, plover, snipe, pheasant and grouse of any variety—Open season, Sept. 1 to Dec. 1.

Prairie chicken—Open season, Sept. 1 to Oct. 15.

Wild duck or other aquatic fowl—Open season, Sept. 1 to Jan. 1.

Wild goose or brant—Open season, Sept. 1 to March 1.

Habitu, gray, fox or black squirrel—Open season, Sept. 1 to March 1.

Fisher, martin or mink—Open season, Nov. 1 to March 1.

Other—Open season, Nov. 1 to Feb. 15.

Muskrat—Open season, Nov. 1 to May 1.

Beaver—No open season.

Mongolian, Chinese, English pheasant or quail—No open season.

Limit to the number of game birds that may be killed or possessed during any one day: Fifteen prairie chickens, grouse of any variety or woodcock; twenty-five partridge or pheasant; thirty wild geese, wild duck of any variety, plover or snipe.

Prohibited Methods for Hunting Deer.

With dog or dogs.

In the "night time."

In the water or on the ice of any stream, pond or lake.

By means of any pit, pit fall, trap or snare or by the aid of any artificial light.

Salt licks are prohibited.

It is unlawful to kill or possess more than two deer in any one year or to have in possession the skin of any deer when in the red coat or the skin of any fawn when in the spotted coat.

Transportation.

It shall be unlawful to transport any hides or a green head of a deer between Dec. 6 and Nov. 12 following, or part transport a carcass or part of carcass of a deer during the open season without having attached thereto coupons properly cancelled as provided by law.

Prohibited Methods of Hunting Aquatic Fowl.

Shooting on open water beyond the natural covering of reeds and rushes.

To shoot from an artificial blind.

To hunt in the night time.

To use more than twenty-five decoys.

To use a net of any kind.

Prohibited methods of hunting protected game birds.

To use any snare, net, trap, spring gun or similar contrivance, or any other firearm not habitually held at arm's length and discharged from the shoulder.

Unlawful to destroy or molest muskrat houses or to shoot or spear muskrats.

Fish.

Open season—Brook trout of any variety—May 1 to Aug. 15. It is unlawful to retain trout of any variety less than six inches in length, or to have more than ten pounds in possession during any one day or to sell any trout, or to ship same without accompanying the shipment, or to fish for any variety of fish in a trout stream during the closed season.

Open season—Game fish—May 25th to March 1. Restrictions in certain localities.

It is unlawful to take game fish by any other method than by angling or trolling, or to take and retain black bass less than eight inches in length.

Transportation—Packages containing fish or game must be labelled to show the weight of each kind of fish, the number of each variety of game, and the name and address of the consignee and consignee, under penalty of fine and imprisonment.

It will be seen by the above that the law on prairie chicken is a trifle mixed. The open season for all grouse commences on the first of September, while the open season for prairie chicken does not commence until the 15th of September. As there are very few prairie chickens in this neighborhood, the greater part of the birds going by this name being grouse, the season here will open the 1st of September, as it says: "All kinds of grouse." About the only difference to a casual observer between a prairie chicken and a grouse is that one has yellow legs, and the other has black legs. Hunters this year will have to look over their birds carefully before shooting them.

Horses Poisoned.

A queer case, the like of which is seldom heard, has come to light near the village of Vesper. Messrs. Trout and Carlson of that place recently lost a horse from some unusual cause, and investigation proved that the cause of death had been poison, poison being the drug used. A search was made in the pasture where the horse was confined and a salt lick was discovered, where parts given had been mixed with the salt, making it plainly apparent how the horses had met their death. Altho a photo investigation was made by the officers of the law, no clue was discovered as to who the guilty party was, and the only thing possible was to give up the search.

Only a few months ago a barn belonging to Mr. Trentel was burned, and from the evidence obtainable after the occurrence of the fire it was evident that the building had been set fire by some person, but it was impossible to discover the guilty party. It is evident that there is a dangerous person living in the neighborhood of Vesper, and it is a pity that the officers of the law cannot apprehend the guilty party and make him suffer for his misdeeds.

The advance announcement of the Camp Cleghorn Assembly at the Chain of Lakes, Waupaca, Wisconsin, indicates that the program for 1905 will be even better than preceding ones. There was a variety of amusements furnished for those who were present, and the band from this city was present, and rendered music all the afternoon and evening. A number of boats had been provided for the occasion and some of those present occupied their time by rowing about the river.

Death of Clark Huey.

Clark Robert Huey, one of the old residents of this city, died at his home on the west side on Tuesday afternoon, cause of death being bright's disease. C. marched into the James Gibson home on Cranberry street and took full possession, and held high carnival, it being the 5th birthday of our genial chief of Police, who was taken completely by surprise and for once had to surrender his club and star and become one of the boys. Music, games and war stories by the old boys were indulged in until half past ten o'clock when refreshments were served to all. At about midnight all concluded that it was about time to return to their respective homes and all took their departure after bidding a good night to the chief and lady hoping that all may live to meet there again one day from now to celebrate the chief's anniversary. Crying Down Progress.

Since the new train known as the twentieth century limited ran into an open switch and several people were killed, the company has decided to return to the twenty hour schedule between Chicago and New York. In view of the fact that the company has decided to make the change back again many of the papers of the country have seen fit to say that it is a good thing and that the change to the faster time should never have been made.

There is no question but that the hours is rather a short time between Chicago and New York, but there is no evidence that the time cannot be made with ease, nor is there any evidence to show that the recent accident was in any way due to the speed at which the train was running. There is no question but that the time can be made safely, or it would not have been attempted by the company. Had the train been running only sixty miles an hour, which is not considered very fast these days, and had struck an open switch, there would have been an accident just as bad as the one that happened.

The saying that the time was too fast is only an admission of the tardiness of the people to cry down any new thing that comes up, if there is the least chance to do so. When the first locomotive was put in operation and it was stated on good authority that after things had got in working order and the track had been smoothed down somewhat, it would be possible to make the astonishing speed of fifteen miles an hour, the people were incredulous. One newspaper came out and made the statement that while it might be possible for a locomotive to make this immense speed, that nobody would care to endanger their neck by riding at such a breakneck pace. And in spite of those sayings the people of the world have trusted their necks to these enormous speeds and some of them seem to even enjoy the going.

It may be that there are times when the speed limit is crowded on a trifle, but the way of the world is to progress and it looks very much as if it would continue to progress, and it will make very little difference whether the newspapers criticize the motor or not. As long as the public demands faster trains and patronizes them, the railway companies will continue to make an effort to supply the demand. The idea carried by some people that the limit of speed has been reached is all trash, and there is no question but what the day will come when trains will travel at such a speed that the present method of locomotion will seem like going by ox team.

Church Americanized.

The appointment of the Rev. Augustin F. Schinner as bishop of the new diocese of Superior calls attention to a significant change that is taking place in the American Catholic church. The change may be indicated by the statement that the church is Americanized. Particularly in this change seen at the present time in the west and the north-west. A few years ago almost all of the high officials in the church were foreign born, and here as religious leaders. Naturally many of them brought to this country the traditions of the countries from which they came. Naturally, also many of them failed to understand the real spirit of American life. Their attitude was not one of hostility to American institutions, as many non-American Americans claimed, but was one of misapprehension. Their views of social relations had been cast in other molds and they could not adjust themselves perfectly to the new conditions which they found. Consequently there was more or less friction between these officials and men of other churches. Both the church and the country suffered.

But a new era has come in. The Catholic church in America is now American in spirit and in fact as well as in name. Its leaders are in sympathy with the American ideal of government and of society. More and more native Americans are being placed in the high positions. The Rev. Schinner, the newly appointed bishop, was born in Milwaukee. Bishop Fox of Green Bay is a native of the district now under his charge. Other prominent leaders, like Archbishop Ireland and Archbishop Messersmith, came to this country when boys or young men and are thoroughly American by training and association. They believe in American democracy and are doing all that they can to make it triumphant.

American Catholics realize that America has its own problems and that these must be solved according to American methods and in the American spirit. This great body of Christian workers is helping in the task, and it is rendering valiant service. —Milwaukee Journal.

Oconto Enterprise.—The principal argument of the Half-Breeds last fall against the Democratic platform was that it did not contain a flat "2-cent per mile railroad passenger rate." The Half-Breed platform did contain such a plank, and, also the legislature and governor were Half-Breeds, the former not only failed to make good its platform pledge, but turned down a proposition to force the railroad companies to sell passenger tickets at the rate of 2 cents per mile.

What But Masterson Thinks of Fred Beell.

But Masterson, considered to be the leading sporting writer in the country, witnessed the Beell-Jenkins match. What he says in the New York Sunday Telegram makes interesting reading:

It took a bit of doing, and no mistake, for old grizzly Tom Jenkins to snatch victory from what appeared at one time sure defeat in his catch-as-catch-can wrestling match with Fred Beell, the little western demon, last Friday night, at Billy Kinner's gymnasium. Jenkins, like many others around the city, knew nothing of Beell and actually looked upon him as a joke.

"If I had ever heard where he had beaten a good man," said big Tom, "I might take him seriously, but he has never thrown a wrestler of any note that I ever heard of and besides, I understand he is a small man. This seems to make it look easy for me," concluded the champion. This statement was made the evening before the match and before Tom had got his glances on his prospective opponent. Now here is what old grizzly said at the conclusion of the bout:

"I don't know this man—never saw him before in my life, but he is the best man of his weight that ever stepped into shoe leather."

If there are any falls known in the category of catch-as-catch-can, Gracie-Roman, collar and elbow, and the Cumberland style of wrestling that were overlooked by the contestants the spectators who were present would like to know what they look like. First, it was one, then the other who was sent sprawling thru the ropes and to the floor; then, just to change the monotony, both would make a header from the platform while locked in a viselike grip and land on their heads outside the ring. The partitions at either end of the platform were almost knocked loose from their fastenings on several occasions as the men crashed against them in their efforts to secure a fall. It was a contest for blood; that is, it was on its merits, and at no time during the contest did either man appear willing to take time to spit on his hands.

Jenkins discovered early in the contest that he was up against a Tamer. Beell won the first fall in two hours and fifty minutes of the roughest kind of wrestling and looked to have the match clinched, as he was apparently crash and strong as he left the ring for the ten-minute rest, in his dressing room.

When the men entered the ring for the second fall, it was easily seen that Jenkins had blood in his eye. For no sooner was time called than he was after his man like a frenzied bull after a red flannel shirt. It was slugging from the call of time. The little fellow neither shirked nor ran away. He met the veteran of many a hard-fought contest on the mat at every stage of the game, but it did not last long—little more than a minute.

Jenkins slammed him against the wall, almost knocked the wind out of him. The little fellow fell to the mat and big Tom was on him in an instant, and soon won the fall with a half Nelson.

In the last fall it looked to be either man's match up to the very last, when by sheer strength Jenkins escaped from a half Nelson, and then getting a clutch hold on Beell, put his shoulders to the mat in twenty-six seconds, which gave him the match.

Harvey Parker stated after the match that while he had lost his money, he did not begrudge it, and still believed that Beell was the better man if the contest was to take place on the floor, on a regulation-sized mat, instead of on a raised platform. One thing is certain, there are many more sports in New York today who know all about Fred Beell than there were last Friday afternoon.

Burt by a Hand Car.

Marshall Douglas was brought to this city last Wednesday evening in a badly battered up condition as the result of a hand car accident that he participated in that evening. Douglas is employed as a section hand and he in company with several companions were on their way to Rudolph after their day's work. They were running along at a lively rate when the hand car they were propelling jumped the track and threw most of the men to the ground. Douglas was thrown beneath the car and he was struck in such a manner as to cut a bad gash in his head and bruise and cut him in other places. After arriving in this city the man was given surgical assistance, after which he rested quite easy, and next day was able to be about again, although considerably battered up by his experience. Taken altogether it was very lucky that he escaped with his life.

Second Commencement.

The second commencement of the Wood County Teachers' Training school was held at the Lincoln building on Wednesday afternoon and Thursday evening of last week. The exercises on Wednesday consisted of the class exercises, and besides the class there were a number of invited guests present. The program was greatly pleased with the program that the scholars presented.

Thursday evening occurred the regular graduation exercises, and the program was attended by a large number of interested spectators, and the program as rendered was well worth listening to. The principal speaker of the occasion was O. J. Kern, of Winnebago county, Ill. He took as his subject, "The Most Efficient Means for Improving the Rural School" and he handled the subject in a manner that was both instructive and interesting to those present.

The program as published last week was carried out with the exception that Mr. Connor of Marshfield could not be present to present the diplomas, which was done in a very fitting manner by E. P. Arpin.

Heard on the Streets

During the past week T. J. Cooper has been assisting the city clerk in taking the census on the west side, and Mr. Cooper reports that the census man bumps up against some queer things while making his rounds to find out the facts as they exist. The census man has a good many questions to ask this year, and no doubt to the average woman of the house some of them seem a trifle irrelevant, incompetent and immaterial, but they have to be answered just the same. The list of questions runs something as follows:

How old are you?
How many children have you?
Are you married or single?
What is your mother's name?
Are your teeth filled with gold or cement?
Is there a mortgage on your property?

Are you a democrat or a proslavery?

What was the color of your grand-mother's eyes on your father's side?

Do you believe in a protective tariff?

Do you think that Gov. LaFollette will resign soon?

Do you think the capital should be located in Grand Rapids?

If not, why not?

And a number of other questions which lack of space prevents our enumerating. Mr. Cooper says that the census man seems to balk on the most when he attempts to find how many members there are in the family who are eligible to become members of the militia. Some of the women folk think he is around for the purpose of drafting the men into the army, which they invariably kick on.

A story comes from the east side which has some amusing features. It seems that a certain householder had had some difference of opinion with his wife on some trivial subject, but that the woman of the house had been a trifle severe with the man. In order to bring the trouble to an end the man told his wife that he was going to take a dose of carbolic acid, and thereby bring his troubles to an end, and at the same time make a permanent escape from his wife. In order to give the thing a proper appearance he took the carbolic acid bottle and emptied it into the woodshed. His wife, however, did not propose to have things go that way, so she hurriedly telephoned for a doctor, impressing on him the urgency of the case and admonishing him to come at once. The doctor was properly impressed and lost no time in getting to the scene of operations. When he arrived the man who should have been writhing in the last throes of death was lying on the bed asleep, and upon being awakened he refused to accept any of the remedies that the physician proposed to apply, explaining that he had not taken the carbolic acid as yet, but that he might do so if there was any more trouble around the house.

It is not often that us poor mortals here on earth succeed in circumventing nature, or providence, or whatever it is that rules the destiny of things on this sphere, but there are times when one of us imagines that he is a pretty smart guy and he generally proceeds to show the rest of mankind just what he is made of. This is the case with Henry Demitz and Fred Stamm. Both Henry and Fred are ardent trout fishers, and it is something unusual that will prevent them from taking a try at the speckled beauties whenever they have a day off. One day in the early part of this week they had a day off and they decided to go trout fishing. They had been warned that the mosquitoes were a trifle rapid down on the creek bottoms and that life would not be worth living down there even if a man had both hands free to fight with, but they heard not the words of the wise men and on the morning in question hid themselves to the wilds of Adams county. They had provided themselves with a mosquito netting arrangement that went about their heads, and by the use of these ingenious contrivances they expected to be able to laugh at anything in the shape of a mosquito, and while these little pests were buzzing around on side they thought that they would be smiling down from the top of the world at the two ponders from the depths of Chester creek. The theory was all right, but when it came to putting it into practice, it was another matter altogether. When asked next day if the mosquitoes bothered them any, Henry, who works in a bank, and is naturally a secretive cuss, said he'd seen them when they were better and he had seen them when they were worse, which was not a very definite answer. However, Fred is a barber, and is not used to keeping so quiet as is the custom in the banking business, and he gave the whole saw away. He said that he had never supposed that so many mosquitoes could congregate in one place; that every once in a while he would have to raise the mosquito bar canopy that surrounded his head and let the imprisoned mosquitoes that had found their way into the net and were unable to get out. In fact, he said that he thought there were more of the little pests inside of the net than there was on the outside at any one time, but that he might have been mistaken in the matter. Now anybody who has ever fished trout in the brush knows that there are times when a man who is not a devout Christian is apt to use slang. With the water running into one rubber boat, one line tangled around a piece of brush on the opposite side of the creek, several mosquitoes investigating the back of your neck, and an elegant trout hole right below you where you want to get your hook without causing any commotion, it is either a very good man or else a blanked fool that does not say something. Fred says to take all these things and then put your head into a bag so that you cannot see what is going on around you and you will have about the sensation he experienced while using the now patent mosquito eradicator which he had with him on the occasion described above. They brought home twenty-nine fish—with them and a whole lot of valuable experience.

Stevens Point Journal.—An exchange is mourning because the effect of a new law will be to reduce the state aid to county fairs to from 50 to 25 per cent of what they have been receiving. But really why should the state aid any fair, state or county? If the various counties do not find it profitable to hold these exhibits why should other people be called upon to help them out? Why, for instance, should a farmer who is grubbing out a home for his family in northern Wisconsin be called upon to devote part of the proceeds of one day's work to the holding of a fair and "agricultural house trot" down in Rock county?

George M. Huntington has accepted a position as electrician with the United States government, and expects to leave on Thursday next for the east, and later on he will sail for Panama, where he will be employed on the canal work. Mr. Huntington will accompany him as far as New Grawville, N. Y., where he will visit for a time. Mr. Huntington has been looking into the canal business ever since the government decided to start operations there, and after a time he became so imbued with the subject that he decided to apply for a position with the government, which he did, with the result that he received an appointment. George is quite an observer of people and things and he will no doubt store up a lot of interesting information during his residence in the torrid zone.

The mystery as to what had become of Conductor Gen. C. French's savings was cleared up shortly after his death, but this fact reached here only this week. In his trunk was found a small roll of bills. These were put away at the time without being counted and reported to be about $500 or $700. On closer investigation it was found to be all $100 bills tightly rolled together, aggregating between $7,000 and $8,000. Mr. French never kept a bank account here and it was thought he had a safety deposit box in Milwaukee or Chicago. This considerable sum of money was doubtless secreted in his trunk for many years and might at any time have been lost by fire or robbery. Mr. French will be remembered by our readers as conductor on the Central between Nekoma and Marshfield. —Marshfield News.

Saengerfest a Success.

The Saengerfest held at Wausau on Friday, Saturday and Sunday was a great success, and the papers state that on Sunday there was the largest crowd there ever seen in that city. The expenses of the affair were about $500 and it is said that the receipts will just about equal this amount, which will make the financial end of the affair a success also. The next session of the organization will be held at Antigo. There were several other bids for the session.

Remove from the mold by wrapping hot cloths around it until the contents drop out. This is a beautiful ornament to any table and can be improved by adding a wreath of whipped cream.

QUICK PUFFS.—1 pint cranberries, 1 pint flour, 2 teaspoonfuls baking powder, 1 small teaspoonful salt. Stir all these ingredients together, then add two well beaten eggs and a little stiffener than for butter cakes. Fill thoroughly greased cups half full and set into a steamer. Cover closely with steam one hour. They will come out perfect puff balls and should be served hot with sauce.

JELLY.—Pick over and wash a quart of cranberries. Drain off the water and put the wet berries into the inner vessel of a double boiler, filling the outer with lukewarm water. Cover closely. Bring to a boil and keep this up until the berries are broken to pieces and seething hot. Strain and press in a cheesecloth bag into a clean saucepan, and heat to boiling very quickly. Add a cupful of sugar that has been heated in the oven, take from the fire as soon as the sugar is melted, and when almost cold turn into a mold wet with cold water.

CRANBERRY ROLL.—Stew a pint of cranberries in sufficient water to keep them from burning; add half a pint of sugar and cook. Make a good paste and spread the cranberries over it about an inch thick, roll it in a cloth, leaving room for it to swell; tie ends of cloth tightly and boil for two hours. Serve with a sweet sauce. Recipes not given will be found in the Record Cook Book. Mrs. Grace Cunningham, South College avenue, Bloomington, Ind.

DYSPEPSIA.—For some forms of dyspepsia there is no more simple or effective remedy than raw cranberries. Carry a supply in the pocket and eat them frequently during the day.

BISQUE OF CRANBERRIES.—Press boiled rice into cups; when cold, remove the center, brush with yolk of egg and brown slightly in the oven. While the rice cups are browning, stir a cupful of cranberries with one cupful of sugar and when of a jolly, like consistency pour into the cups. Serve hot. —Record Herald.

CANNED CRANBERRIES.—Housekeepers often find towards spring that their canned fruit is all gone and they can find few things in the market for sauce except dried fruits. If during the winter as the jars are emptied they would fill them with cranberry sauce No. 1 (pour into Mason jars hot and seal) they would always have on hand a good, palatable sauce and one that during the early spring months supplies to the system the peculiar acids needed to ward off spring fever.

CRANBERRIES WITH CITRON.—Cook three cupfuls of citron (pared and cut in small squares) in water to cover until tender. Add one cupful of cranberries, two cupfuls of sugar, and cook twenty minutes longer. Use half quantity of sugar of a more acid sauce is preferred.

CHARLOTTE RUSSE.—Line small moulds with lady fingers or sponge cake. Fill with cranberry jam. When well set, remove from the moulds and pile whipped cream on the top. A meringue of the whites of eggs beaten with sugar may be used instead of the cream.

THOMAS JEFFERSON

Framer of the Declaration of Independence Spent One Anniversary of Historic Event in Massachusetts City in 1784.

In May, 1784, the American congress, then in session at Annapolis, Maryland, resolved the nomination of John Jay of New York from the American commercial commission abroad. Mr. Jay being the colleague of Benjamin Franklin and John Adams and Mr. Jefferson, then a member of the congress from Virginia, was elected to the vacancy.

It was at a time when Mr. Jefferson was enroute from the one great sorrow of his life, the loss of Mrs. Jefferson, and the stricken statesman gladly accepted a mission which would take him away from his desolate home and give him such an engaging public work as could not fail to prove beneficial in the end. So he speedily arranged his home matters by correspondence, drew a portion of his $30,000 salary in advance, and with his chief daughter, Martha Jefferson, then a young girl of ten years, the future president proceeded leisurely eastward in quest of a ship that was bound for a French port.

From Annapolis to Philadelphia then to New York, and by easy stages through Connecticut and Massachusetts to Boston, in the month of June, was undoubtedly a very delightful trip to a man who could derive so much pleasure as Jefferson could from nature's own unrivaled attraction. At that season of the year, and the arrival of the distinguished stranger in Boston was not heralded by the best press until seven days after Mr. Jefferson had reached the town and was traveling further eastward as far as Portsmouth, N. H.

Author of the Declaration of Independence. Third President of the United States. Founder of Religious Liberty in Virginia. Founder of the University of Virginia. Father of the Democratic Party.

In fact, the first record of Mr. Jefferson's presence in Boston on this occasion appears in the Journal of the house of representatives, under date of June 12, when the following order was passed:

"Ordered, That a chair be assigned for the Hon. Thomas Jefferson Esq., late governor of Virginia, and now one of the ministers of the United States, for negotiating commercial treaties, if he is inclined to attend the debate of the house, and that Mr. Osborn (Samuel Osborn of Andover) Davis (Thomas Davis junior of Plymouth) and Swan (James Swan of Dorchester) be a committee to wait on the gentleman and inform him of this order, who reported that they had attended that service."

There is no evidence in the record of the subsequent proceedings of the house that Mr. Jefferson accepted the invitation. But on June 30 the senate sent down an order which read as follows:

"Resolved, That Caleb Strong and John Lowell Esquires, with such a committee to confer with the Hon. Mr. Jefferson, one of the commissioners of the United States, for settling treaties of commerce, and give him such information relative to the territory and trade of this state, as he may wish to have and may be useful to this and the United States."

The order was conveyed in and the speaker, Samuel Allen Otis of Boston, William Phillips and John Rowe of Boston, were appointed upon the part of the house to meet Mr. Jefferson for the purpose indicated. But the invited guest still keeping away from the chair that was assigned him, the Massachusetts house took kindly to this neglect of the famous able character, to which he has joined the most extensive knowledge. He is a mathematician and philosopher as well as a civilian and politician, and the memorable declaration of American independence is said to have been penned by him."

The independent Chronicle of July 1 has this brief allusion to the presence of Mr. Jefferson in Boston:

"Since our last arrival in town from the southwest this Excellency, Thomas Jefferson, Esq., late governor of Virginia and member of congress, now one of the commissioners for negotiating treaties with foreign powers."

The Gazette did not condescend to give Mr. Jefferson any kind of notice, completely ignored him, and so far as there is any record to the contrary, Gov. John Hancock, then a sick man, it is fair to say, did not extend any official attention from the executive department. But Mr. Jefferson himself has left on record some evidence that he did receive a kindly greeting at the hands of Boston's social set of that day, his letter to his friend, Elbridge Gerry, found below, expressing his grateful acknowledgments of this pleasant feature of his Boston visit.

Dear Sir:—Being to sail from this port in-morrow, I cannot deny myself the pleasure of recalling myself to your recollection for a moment. I have impatiently hoped your arrival here before I should depart, but I suspect that the helms of Philadelphia have exonerated their power over you. I am here, I understand, you make your principal delay. When I arrived here I found Mrs. Adams within thirty-six hours of sailing. I had determined to take my passage to France in the first instance, yet the wish to accompany Mrs. Adams would certainly have induced me to relinquish this, could I within so short a time have prepared for embarkation.

THE KING OF DAYS

By arrow of the best which sows Abundance in the Golden Days. By arrow of the light, which sows Wealth in the Golden Days. That Earth for all abundance yields.

Out of his chariot on high Brightly shines the Golden Days. And, smiling on all lands below, Sees never a slave but the machine.

Beholds on earth a single sword— A broken blade in hands of Doom: The statue Armageddon's tomb. Above was denon's stumbling tomb. And many a feastful roundelay.

Now merry pipe and dance afield, Behold the banner Betsy made. And Love's bright glances make rainbow play On Betsy's Labor's stolen shade.

"The flag! Our flag!" shout high the hosts— "The thousand stars thirion have won. Flung out on Independence Day. Its folds in parting benison!"

Low sleeping to his golden rest, The King of Days his helm unbare, And lo! across the dazzling sky The Crimson Stripes and Silver Stars!— "Behold the banner Betsy made!"— Patrick J. Tansey.

BETSY'S BANNER

We have nicknamed it "Old Glory" Rich in legend, song and story. Fashioned from stripes and stars! Face about the shining river. Clutched in earnest and glad, With a time that lives forever. Floats the banner Betsy made.

How they cheered it and its maker They the gallant sons of Mars! How they blessed the little Quaker And her flag of stripes and stars! "North its folds, the ocean scorning. And the breezes of the morning Kissed the banner Betsy made."

Now who sleeps, whose fingers fly, With a heart to Freedom true, Mangled and bloody under the stars of blue? It will lack for no defender. On the banner Betsy made. For our Nation rose to splendor. From Four-Track News for July.

The Grand Union, the largest summer hotel in the United States, set among green trees with its long wings enclosing a court with fountains and flowers, grass and trees, music and light, is throughout the season thronged with guests. With the progressive spirit always shown by its management, the Grand Union has again added to its attractiveness by introducing acetylene gas to make still more brilliant the evening hours. The general proprietors believe in furnishing their guests with the best of everything, and now, after investigating and finding that Artificial Sunlight degree easily one to answer the purpose of my mission. No small part of the time, too, has been occupied by the hospitality and civilities of the place, which I have experienced in the highest degree. These, with the preparation for my voyage, have left me scarcely a spare moment; and receiving assurance from every quarter that I might derive from Mr. Tracy the most information as to the commerce of this state, I have referred much of the inquiries I wished to be produced by the automatic contact of a carbide and water might be termed a gas plant, as it performs all of the functions of a city gas plant. The acetylene generator can be purchased for a few dollars and in any size, from one adapted to furnish acetylene for ten or a dozen burners for a cottage, up to the large but still simple and efficient gas plant for a few years ago were considered as luxuries, and acetylene gas has met his requirements, and gives him a better and cheaper light than is ordinarily furnished in cities.

It is well known that rooms lighted with Acetylene are more healthful because the air is not vitiated.

MAN UNFIT TO BE A HERMIT

Charles Warren Stoddard Recalls Prentice Mulford's Experiment.

When he Mulford's hermitage he did it in this fashion: "I alone and I alone I could live happily and contentedly, and largely independent of the rest of the human race. I could not. I don't believe anybody can. Nature has taught me better. I found that the birds went in pairs and in flocks; that plants and trees grew in families; that nuts live in colonies, and that everything of its kind has a tendency to live and grow together. But here I was, a single bit of the human race, trying to live alone and away from my kind. The birds and trees were possibly glad of my admiration for them, but they said: 'You don't belong to us. You belong to your own race; go join them again; we can't get wholly into our lives. You're not a bird, that you can live in a nest and on uncooked seeds; or a squirrel, that can live in a hole in a tree; or a tree, that can root itself in one place and stay there, if you've been trying to do. A hermit is one who tries to be a tree, and draws his nourishment from one spot, when he is really a great deal more than a tree, and must draw life and recreation from many persons and places. A hermit is not so foolish as to try to live among fives; neither should a man try to live entirely among trees, because they cannot give him all that he must have to get the most out of life. So I left my hermitage, and came back to my bed and my pen and my pen to the house of a friend perched on the brink of the Palisades opposite Tinker's."—National Magazine.

Crows' Gold and Silver Nest.

A pair of crows have constructed a nest out of gold and silver specie from purses purloined from the factory of Messrs. Lawrence and Mayo in Bombay.

The materials for this nest (of which the value was about $30) were stolen by the wily crows during the luncheon hour. It was noticed that the spectacle frames were disappearing from the factory in a mysterious manner, but it was some time before the thief was discovered.—Allahabad Pioneer.

Oyama's Strict Regimen.

Marquis Oyama, commanding the Japanese forces in Manchuria, is extremely careful about his health. He totally abstains from all liquors and restricts his smoking to three cigars a day. The hour of his exercise is fixed and at times he goes out shooting. When in Japan his weight was 175 pounds, but this he has decreased during the present campaign by twenty-five pounds. His health is considered to have been greatly improved by his.

Use of Wounded Soldiers.

Inasmuch as a soldier wounded in battle sometimes lacks the strength to call out for help, Dr. Matignon, a French doctor in the Japanese red-cross service, has invented a whistle which, with a very slight exertion, gives a loud sound.

WEALTH OF INDIAN RAJAH.

Sayaji Rao Known as Rockefeller of India.

It is believed that Sayaji Rao, the rajah of Baroda, is the possessor of wealth equal if not superior to that of John D. Rockefeller. He was educated in an English university and his people are well governed. Much of his vast riches is in the form of precious stones. His wife owns the most famous diamond necklace in the world. It is worth $12,000,000 and is made up of 200 stones, each the size of a hazelnut. She also has a coralline of 500 perfect diamonds, none less than twenty carats. In the treasure chamber is a carpet four square yards in surface, made up entirely of ropes of diamonds, pearls and rubies. It required $4,000,000 worth of gems and three years of labor. The long corridors of the palace are lined with marbles and other of incalculable value. The palace is steam heated and electric elevators are placed at frequent intervals. Bronzes, paintings, statuary, all imported, and worth many millions of dollars, are scattered throughout the royal dwelling.

REJOICES IN HIS LIBERTY.

Former Canadian Statesman Will Stick to Journalism.

When Sir Wilfrid Laurier first formed his government in Canada he made Mr. Tarte minister of public works. Differences of political opinion subsequently arose and Mr. Tarte retired. He now devotes himself exclusively to his profession as a journalist and sits in the reporters' gallery of the Canadian house of commons. He recently remarked: "I am happy and prospering in my own legitimate newspaper life. I am free to do and write what my brain and conscience dictate. The salary of a journalist is not high, but a ministerial portfolio would not tempt me to shoulder again the burden of a ministerial portfolio." Mr. Tarte was at one time the chief organizer of the Canadian conservative party, but he transferred his services to the liberals, with whom he is now out of touch.

Value of Hard Work.

All the records of history and all the facts of common experience support the statement that men do not live of hard work, but that hard-working men who shun dissipation and avoid all waste of vitality live the longest. It was said of William Pitt that he died of old age in his forty-seventh year, worn out, not by hard work, though he worked hard, but by inattention to his health and by unphilosophical worry and chagrin. President Roosevelt today in his forty-seventh year displays the exuberant energy of youth, not because he leads an easy life, but because, while working harder probably than any other officer of the government, he pays, as he has always paid, close attention to his health, and avoids the means of weakness and debility.—Boston Globe.

Good Advice as a Tip.

Melville E. Ingalls, former president of the Big Four railroad system, tells this story of a waiter's tip. He was lunching alone in a Cincinnati cafe. Near by sat a dignified gentleman who casually asked his waiter: "How is business?" The man said he was doing well, upon which the dignified individual expressed regret, saying: "Personally, I have always treated your craft in this house generously. The waiter was assiduous in his attentions and helped the guest on with his coat. The dignified man laid his hand on the waiter's arm and said: "Young man, you seem to be discontented with your lot and I am going to give you the best tip I ever received. Get into some other business." And he strolled away, leaving the waiter speechless.

Easily Explained.

Ex-President Grover Cleveland tells a story of a Sunday school teacher who was explaining the lesson to the children in his class. He read impressively from the Bible:

"And the last state of that man was worse than the first." Then he asked:

"Can any little boy tell me what this means?"

Up popped a tiny lad in the rear seat, who piped forth:

"Please, sir, the man moved to Jersey."—New York Times.

Women and the Legislature.

It was only very recently that elected lights were installed in the women's galleries of the house of commons in London. The only kind of accommodation once offered to female visitors there was a kind of loft between the ceiling and roof, from which perhaps a dozen were permitted to look down upon the proceedings below.

BARRIE'S LIFE OF SUCCESS.

Novelist Has Known Few of the Ordinary Struggles.

Mr. Barrie has recently passed his forty-fifth birthday. It is some twenty years ago that he went to London to win fame and fortune by his pen. Speaking of the early days of his career at a banquet recently Mr. Barrie said: "I wrote and asked the editor who had printed 'Thru the Reeds' to come to London, and he said no, but I wrote him with a check for $100,000, and he came to walk in the middle of the street (they jump out on you as you are turning the corner), never to venture forth after sunset, and always to lock up everything—except my heart in company." Mr. Barrie's career reads like a romance. Getting into the hands of a few managers in his pockets and the advice of his publisher, at 30 he was one of the most popular novelists of the day, at 40 one of the most successful dramatists.

ODD MOMENTS OF VALUE.

George Westinghouse Finds Little Need for Recreation.

George Westinghouse of Pittsburgh, who has been chosen to act as trustee in the Equitable society's affairs, controls fifteen great manufacturing companies, nine in the United States, one in Canada and five in Europe. Business is his recreation, taking places of automobiles and picture galleries, which other hard-worked millionaires find necessary to rest their tired faculties. As an inventor he takes high rank. On one occasion, while engineering a large financial movement in New York city, an idea for a mechanical device suggested itself. As soon as possible he took the train for Pittsburgh, busy sketching the proposed invention. On reaching his destination he drove to one of his factories and, placing the drawing in the hands of a master workman, said: "Make that." The machine proved to be a great success.

Frederick DeMartens is Russia's foremost authority on foreign affairs. He has been a permanent member of the council of the ministry for foreign affairs since 1893. He accompanied Prince Gortchakov at the congresses of Berlin and Vienna, and has represented Russia at many diplomatic congresses and conferences at Brussels, Paris, Rome, Vienna, Geneva, and The Hague. He was the Russian plenipotentiary at the peace conference at The Hague in 1899. He was president of the council of arbitration in Paris in 1903, which settled the controversy between Great Britain and Venezuela, and he has served as arbitrator between France and England; England and Holland; United States and Mexico. He is now a member of the permanent international court of arbitration at The Hague.

Bishop Charged With Libel.

Rev. Robert Coleman, Protestant Episcopal bishop of the Diocese of Maine, is not worrying much over the fact that he has been indicted for criminal libel. The plaintiff is W. H. Gardner, a business man of Camden, Me., who avers that the bishop, in a letter to a certain rector, called him "an excommunicated member of the church." Mr. Gardner admits that he is no longer connected with the church, but denies that he was excommunicated. The bishop regards the accusation as petty, though the grand jury of Lincoln county evidently agreed with Mr. Gardner.

The "Man's Page."

"An Impatient Correspondent" wants to know "why there is no man's page in the Sunday paper." He complains that there is a "woman's page" and a "children's page" and he indignantly insists that man should have a page. We do not desire to give out the impression that helpful suggestions seem to us that "An Impatient Correspondent" has worked himself into a foolish state of excitement. Or do his boys take the sporting page before he gets a chance at it?

Lucky Doctor.

In France it is not only the uneducated who plunge in the public lotteries. They are patronized by all classes, and a Calais doctor has just found Dame Fortune more kind than he was ever likely to find Asclepiades. His name is Dr. Huc, and he took a whole ticket in the last issue of Panama lottery bonds. He has just received notification that he has drawn the grand prize of $100,000. Dr. Huc was chief surgeon to the hospitals of Calais.

Much Money for Indian Army.

Influence of Music.

"Is music immoral, really?" asked the debutante. "Not at all of it," replied the chaperon. "Some pianos are upright."

CRIMINALS DO WORK ALONE.

Gangs and Combinations a Thing of the Past.

According to a veteran New York detective who has just gone on the retired list after nearly forty years of service, the trust principle or combination of interests does not prevail among criminals in the recital of his experiences, which he has imparted to an interviewer. It is set forth that "gangs" are by no means as common today as they were when he first took to scintling and that "pals" and "partners" are growing few. The modern criminal professes to do his work alone. He is the independent, having no associates, puts less danger, for the saying about honor among thieves has little to rest on. "Pals" are easily "pumped" when they do not anticipate the need of the process by "squealing." Another thing that the retired detective has noted of late is that criminals were in the early '70's. He thinks that crimes when demand in the perpetrator a fair education and considerable knowledge of the way of finance and the ways of the world are more common than they were.

It is more surprising, however, to find Pierre Loti championing the Turk and objecting to the epithet 'unpardonable.' In reference to him the academicien has sent a message on the occasion of the appearance of the new number of Le Figaro, a paper published in London. He supports the paper's aim, which is to make the Turks known in Europe, and says: 'The Turkish people are brave, gentle, sober and admirable dreamers, thoroughly loyal, magnificent in war and one of the noblest on earth.'"

WHY THEY ARE HAPPY

TWO NOTABLE RECOVERIES FROM EXTREME DEBILITY.

Husband's Strength Had Been Waning for Three Years, Wife a Sufferer from Female Weakness.

"My strength had dwindled so that I couldn't apply myself to any business with any snap but was tired and listless all the time," said Mr. Goldstein.

"I went to bed completely worn out every day's work, and when I got up in the morning I didn't feel as fit as a fiddle. I had awful headaches too, and my lady-ness got out of order and caused me to have severe pains in the back. At one time I became so feeble that I could not stir from bed for three weeks."

Mr. Goldstein is a young man and had then but recently established a house of his own. His anxieties were increased by the fact that his wife was far from being robust. Mr. Goldstein says:

"For two years I had been all most of the time. Sometimes I was confined to bed for weeks in succession under a physician's care. I had headaches, kidney trouble, pain about the heart and many more uncomfortable symptoms connected with that weakness to which my sex is peculiarly subject."

Though that was the case, his household and settled in it in just the years that ought to be the very happiest. Physicians could not tell them how to get rid of it.

"I was utterly discouraged," said Mr. Goldstein. "Then the urgency of some friends led me to try a blood and nerve remedy which was said to be wonderfully successful. Within a month these weaknesses and disorders that had so long troubled me, and within a year I was completely well. Through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I have now as good health as I ever had in my life."

Mrs. Goldstein adds: "The wonderful effect that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had in the case of my husband and myself is beyond question, and they helped me even more quickly than they did him. One box made me decidedly better and a few months' treatment cured me."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best tonic and regulator they make pure, rich blood and when there is general weakness and disorder that cannot be cured by other means, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are said by druggists everywhere.

Foolish Customs Laws.
Several times of late we have found among the luggage of an Englishman who was traveling to Morocco last month. He was in charge of a racing car, and intended to use the pigment to touch on the vessel after his long railway journey. The French customs officials, however, took exception to the paint on the ground that it contained defensible spirit, whereupon the traveler argued that he intended bringing it back on leaving the country. Asked how he was going to bring it back, he replied, "On the sides of the boat." Even this plea did not suffice, the authorities arguing that the spirit would have evaporated.

Hurrah for the Fourth

Hurrah for the Fourth of July!
With its deafening racket and noise;
When mothers instinctively sigh
For the safety of reckless small boys.
When Johnny awakes with a yell,
And drags forth his cast-iron gun,
Whose booming uproariously tell
He is wading knee-deep in the fun.

Hurrah for the Fourth of July,
And the rattle of life and of drum!
When we know from small Willie's sad cry,
He is minus a finger or thumb;
When mothers, behind darkened doors,
Keep cotton plugged into their ears
To shut out the thunderous roars
And are filled with forebodings and fears.

Hurrah for the Fourth of July!
When the surgeons are all feeling gay,
And with lollions and amies try
To respond to the calls of the day.
When dynamite crackers get in
And furnish their quota of harm,
And we learn in the murderous din
That Tommy is minus an arm!

Hurrah for the Fourth of July!
When Johnny has to die the fun,
And with foolish desire to die,
Looks into the mouth of his gun.
Oh, well that the funeral man
Has methods which he can employ,
And in some sort of decency can
Straighten out what is left of the boy!

Hurrah for the Fourth of July!
The glad day is now drawing near;
There's a hurra, red glare in the sky,
The booming we faintly can hear.
Prepare for the dangers that wait,
For the noise we will hear by and by,
For the racket the kids will create—
Hurrah for the Fourth of July!

Some Famous Sayings

WASHINGTON.

There are four things which I humbly conceive are essential to the well-being, I may even venture to say, to the existence of the United States, as an independent power.

First, an indissoluble union of the states under one federal head.

Secondly, a sacred regard to public justice.

Thirdly, the adoption of a proper peace establishment, and

Fourthly, the prevalence of that pacific and friendly disposition among the people of the United States which will induce them to forget their local prejudices and policies; to make those mutual concessions which are requisite to the general prosperity; and, in some instances, to sacrifice their individual advantages to the interest of the community.

These are the pillars on which the glorious fabric of our independence and national character must be supported. Liberty is the basis, and whoever would dare to sap the foundation, or overturn the structure, under whatever specious pretext he may attempt it, will merit the bitterest execrations, and the severest punishment which can be inflicted by his injured country.

DANIEL WEBSTER.

(Address in Congress, July 4, 1851.)

I now do declare, in the face of all the intelligent of the age, that, for the period which has elapsed from the day that Washington laid the foundation of this capital to the present time, there has been no country upon earth in which life, liberty and property have been more amply and steadily secured, or more freely enjoyed, than in these United States of

IDEAS OF THOMAS JEFFERSON

Extract From Letters Written by Famous Statesman.

The basis of our government being the opinion of the people, the very first object should be to keep that right; and were it left to me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers, or newspapers without a government, I should not hesitate a moment to prefer the latter. But I should mean that every man should receive those papers and be capable of reading them.—In a letter to Edward Carrington, dated Paris, Jan. 16, 1787.

I am for a government, vigorously frugal and simple, applying all the possible savings of the public revenue to the discharge of the national debt; and not for a multiplication of offices and salaries merely to make partisans, and for increasing by every device, the public debt, on principle of its being a public blessing. I am for free commerce with all nations; political connections with none, and little or no diplomatic establishment.—To Elbridge Gerry, Jan. 28, 1789.

Our first and fundamental maxim should be, never to entangle ourselves in the politics of Europe. Our second, never to suffer Europe to meddle with our affairs. America, North and South, has a set of interests distinct from those of Europe, and peculiarly her own. She should, therefore, have a system of her own, separate and apart from that of Europe.—To President Monroe, Oct. 24, 1823.

Fourth of July in the Philippines.
On the Fourth of July the Filipino "outcasts" are the most patriotic Yankees that ever lived. He has taken on the day to his heart, and is as joyous over it as a boy over his first firecracker; and while perhaps he is yet a trifle hazy as to the exact importance of the event in American history, he is perfectly clear on the subject of flags, and he is perfectly aware of the good times possible on this day.

In Manila all the business houses are draped with starry bunting and the ancient palaces are bright with the Stars and Stripes; and even the boats in the harbor are decked with "Old Glory." Towering arches, generally of bamboo, are erected in the streets and strung with flags and portraits of our national heroes. In the smaller Philippine towns, where flags cannot be had, these arches are often made of cotton cloth and decorated with wreaths and suitable inscriptions.—Woman's Home Companion.

Stalls for Cattle.

A countryman brought his sweet heart into Glasgow to hear a performance by a well-known opera company. Going up to the ticket-office, the girl hanging on to the sleeve of his jacket, he banged down a half-sovereign, and said:

"Two seats."

"Gulls!" inquired the clerk.

"Look here, my man," replied Barlowman, rather sharply, "dina think because we came frae the country that we're cattle. Gie twa cushioned seats."

Hospitality Up to Date.

One member of a certain woman's club was leaving the Sunday afternoon reception when she met another just coming in.

"You're a cordial hostess," remarked the first. "Why don't you come early and entertain your company. That guest you invited has been waiting and waiting for you a solid hour."

"Heavens!" exclaimed the other, much annoyed. "Hasn't she gone yet?"—New York Press.

WARFARE AGAINST CONSUMPTION

Why Fight It.

The Charity Organization Society of New York, in a hand-book on the prevention of tuberculosis, encourages the active campaign against this great plague and gives a concise summary of "Why" the battle should be waged.

Because more people die of consumption than from any other disease.

Each year 1,095,000 of the people of the world die of it. In the United States over 100,000 die every year of consumption. Every day 3,000, and each minute of the day two persons fall before this enemy. How many of your friends have died of it?

Because it is a disease which spreads from one person to another, and any one may catch it.

Because it is chiefly caused by the filthy habit of spitting.

Because it is a disease which can be stopped, and need not spread.

Because every one may and should help stop it.

Because already there is change for the better. The number of deaths from consumption is growing less. Twenty years ago there were many more deaths in proportion to the population than now.

If the tuberculosis death rate of 1886 had been maintained the first nine months of 1902, four thousand more persons in Manhattan and the Bronx would have died of tuberculosis than actually died in those months.

Could anything be found more inspiring, more plainly indicative of the need for extending the work against this disease?

Use of Tobacco by Minors.

The use of tobacco by children, its causes and prevention is discussed in the Medical Summary.

Whilst most states have laws forbidding the sale of tobacco to minors, it is a notorious fact that such laws are universally ignored. The parent, teacher and physician are to blame.

The parent, that he does not thoroughly train his child; the teacher, that he does not better supervise the conduct of his pupils; the doctor, in that he does not warn the parent, who perhaps errs himself.

School boys may be seen any day on their way to school with books under their arms, and a chew of tobacco or a cigarette in their mouths. Occasionally little girls may be observed indulging in the same vice.

The evil is evident, and the remedy is provided, but law is useless till enforced on violation. The dealer will obey it till public sentiment demands it; the child does not choose to submit to it; the parent is negligent; the pupil is indifferent or silent; and what is left for the child's salvation but action upon the part of the guardians of humanity. If we act, we move.

Without the parent will not appreciate the dealer will not make an exception and sell to a child. If we act, we move.

ERRORS IN A CYCLOPEDIA.

Careful Man Discovers 1,000 Blunders in a Work of Reference.

A man who has done a great deal of work in correcting some large dictionaries, encyclopedias and historical reference works, who has studied ten languages and who is well informed on a number of foreign lands, examined over 15,000 pages of an encyclopedia recently published in this country. Much of the work he did without the publisher's knowledge.

Though this encyclopedia was considered to have been edited carefully, he discovered over 1,000 mistakes in the first volume alone. In the following volumes he found many thousands.

In speaking of one of the most famous violin virtuosos who ever lived, it was said that in his youth he fell out with his parents and ran away to Cassel, Germany, twelve years after he died. In giving a sketch of a living European author, the statement was made that he wrote and published his first book nine years before he was born. In calling an editor's attention to this error, the editor replied, "Verily, a bright kid this! What price society!"—Success.

Of Wide Interest.

Breed, Wisn., June 24.—Specialist Chas. V. Peterson, Justice of the Peace for Oconto Co., has delivered a judgment that is of interest to the whole United States. Put briefly, that judgment is, "Dodd's Kidney Pills are the best kidney medicine on the market today."

And Mr. Peterson gives his reason for this judgment. He says: "Last winter I had an aching pain in my back which troubled me very much. In the morning I could hardly straighten up my back. I did not know what it was but an advertisement led me to 'Dodd's Kidney Pills.' After taking one box I can truly say that I have done for me than expected as I feel as well now as ever I did before."

Pain in the back is one of the first symptoms of kidney disease. If not cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills it may develop into Bright's Disease, Diabetes, rheumatism or some of the other deadly forms of kidney disease.

Honor Revolutionary Hero.

Honors Sons of the Revolution last week dedicated a bowlder to the memory of Capt. Isaac Hall, who commanded the Medford minute men at Lexington and Bunker Hill. The bowlder is of Medford granite and is in place in the yard of the former residence of Capt. Isaac Hall, corner of Bradley road and High street. On the bronze tablet facing High street is this inscription: "On this site lived Capt. Isaac Hall, who commanded the Medford minute men at Lexington and Bunker Hill. He was born here on his memorable ride to Concord, April 18-19, 1775, to warn Capt. Hall that the British soldiers were on the march. Placed by the Massachusetts Society Sons of the Revolution, June 14, 1902."

Louisiana Baptist College.

State Bank Examiner J. F. Thomas, who is a member of the Louisiana Baptist committee appointed to choose a site for a Baptist college in Louisiana, announced that John D. Rockefeller has promised the institution liberal financial support. The location of the institution will be announced at a meeting in November.

Excerpted Davis' new novel of Washington life, "Mrs. Darrell," is by the author of "Despotism and Democracy," a crisp, pungent picture of the social life of high political circles; it is done with a light touch and with a dominating note of optimism rather than satire, which makes it pleasant reading. Truths that Strike Home

Your grocer is honest and if he comes to do so, you tell him that he knows very little about the bulk coffee he sells you. How can he know, where it originally came from, how it was blended, or with what, or when roasted? If you buy your coffee loose by the pound, how can you expect purity and uniform quality?

LION COFFEE, the LEADER OF ALL PACKAGE COFFEES, is of necessity uniform in quality, strength and flavor. For over a quarter of a century, LION COFFEE has been the standard coffee in millions of homes.

LION COFFEE is carefully packed at our factories, and until opened by your home, has no chance of being adulterated, or of coming in contact with dust, dirt, germs, or nuclear brands.

In each package of LION COFFEE you get one full pound of Pure Coffee. Insist upon getting the genuine (Lion head on every package).

U. S. soldiers who served in Cuba during the Spanish war know what this disease is and how it can be cured. It has little more effect than so much water. We had several doctors but they did him no good. One bottle of this remedy cured him, as our neighbors will testify. I thank God for so valuable a medicine." For sale by Daly Drug & Jewelry Co.

Monona Lake Assembly.

The program of the Monona Lake Assembly of 1905 has recently been issued, and is a most attractive one. The assembly will open July 21 and close August 5, and it is safe to say that no assembly in the country offers more high grade attractions in a sixteen days' session.

The band will be assisted by Miss Shortwell Piper, soprano, and Francis Archambault, baritone, whose success as soloists with the New York Symphony orchestra is well known. Those desiring further information regarding the Assembly will receive it by writing to James B. Moseley, Secretary, Madison, Wis.

He Got Nine Months.

John Skibba, jr., of Junction City was sentenced to the state prison by Judge Murat for a term of nine months. The young man is in the twentieth year of his age, and since his confinement in the county jail has had more callers than any person who has been confined there for a long time. His father was present at the time of his sentence. A good many petty larcenies have been committed at the Junction of late and since his arrest the Skibba boy has been suspected of having a hand in them. This, however, he strenuously denies and says that the stealing of $25.50 from the safe of the Rosabud hotel constituted his only violation of the law.—Stevens Point Journal.

In the College of Letters and Science 230 degrees were granted, of which 194 were bachelor of arts, 23 bachelor of philosophy in the course for normal school graduates, 2 bachelor of pharmacy in the four year course, 10 graduates in the college of engineering there are 104 graduates; in the College of Law 47; in the College of Agriculture 10 in the four year course. Of the higher degrees 22 were master of arts, one master of science in agricultural engineering, and 7 were granted the highest academic degree, that of doctor of philosophy. The total number of graduates, 428, is an increase of 67, or more than 18 per cent over the number of graduates last year.

The honorary degree of doctor of laws was conferred upon Hon. Carl Schurz of New York, the well-known publicist, who was regent of the University from 1890-93; Dr. John Bascom, who was president of the University from 1874-1887; Professor Werner Spaltsholz of the University of Leipzig, the distinguished anatomist; and Chief Justice Casagdy, and Justice Marshall of the Wisconsin Supreme Court, all of whom were present at commencement. Among those who received the degree of doctor of philosophy was Bentaro Gakiwara of Japan, who for the past three years has been pursuing graduate work in economics, sociology and political science at the University of Wisconsin, and has prepared a history of the development of railway transportation in Japan.

Gen. Carl Schurz delivered the commencement address, in which he emphasized the importance of the mission of the University in holding aloft the highest standards of morals, and maintaining the truest ideals and standing as the stoutest bulwark against the vicious storms of opinion and sentiment, one of the most striking of which at the present time, he pointed out, is the inordinate and unscrupulous use of wealth, and the worship of success as such.

After praising President Roosevelt for the countenance which he has given to the Hague Tribunal, and especially for his recent attempt to bring about termination of the war in the far East, Gen. Schurz said: "This republic should stand as the gentleman par excellence among the nations, the gentleman scorn the role of a swashbuckler whose hip pockets bulge with loaded six-shooters and who flashes big diamonds on his fingers and his shirt front; the gentle-

If this republic is to endure and to be successful in its highest mission, it must put its trust rather in schools than in battlefields."
